Title
Speed editing with an editor of AJET
Brief description
This session gives you the opportunity to meet one-on-one with an AJET editor to discuss your draft paper or publishing idea. These short, sharp, speedediting sessions will allow prospective authors to discuss with an AJET Editor an idea for a paper that could be submitted to the journal. Sessions will last 15 minutes and can be booked through the registration desk at the conference. Some authors may have completed their draft paper or still be in the process of conducting their research. To make the most of this session we recommend that authors try to prepare a short summary covering: (1) Proposed title, (2) Research problem, aim or question this study addresses, (3) Methodology, method, and materials, (4) Main results/findings - key points, (5) Key conclusions/implications - further research, theory, practice and/or policy
Names
AJET Editorial team
Length of time for session
1hr
Process
we will have a Zoom room with an Editor welcoming and managing the overall session. That editor will then allocate authors to a breakout room in which they can meet and work with one of the editorial team.

Title
Becoming an AJET author or reviewer
Brief description
Join the editors of the Australasian Journal of Educational Technology for a session that will provide an overview of the AJET editorial process, including details of both the screening and the peer review processes and criteria. It will also encourage a general discussion of tips and tricks for publishing in the field of educational technology. The session will feature a short presentation from the editors followed by a question and answer session, with plenty of opportunity for discussion.
Names
Michael Henderson, Eva Heinrich, Petrea Redmond, AJET Lead Editors
Length of time for session
Normal session time - e.g. 30min-45min we can be flexible.